A story full of tradition

International Food, a family-owned business nestled in Santarcangelo di Romagna near Rimini, seamlessly blends professionalism with a distinctive style, embodying a rich family history driven by Salvatore's intuition and Mirvana's dedication. Since 1980, the company has passionately championed health-conscious, balanced alternative diets through the production of legumes, cereals, and fresh fruits. Salvatore and Mirvana's vision, focused on innovation and holistic well-being, has transformed International Food into a symbol of familial unity and commitment to quality, health, and a balanced lifestyle. Today, the company's narrative resonates with resilience, growth, and a shared vision that transcends generations

Market Trends

There's a continuous emphasis on wellness, with consumers actively seeking out healthy ingredients. This includes a growing interest in functional ingredients, such as pro- and prebiotics, often found in vegetable-based beverages. The demand for organic ingredients remains strong, despite economic pressures.

The trend towards plant-based products is still going strong. Ingredients like buckwheat, fungi, hemp, and seaweed are gaining popularity. This could mean an increased presence of these ingredients in vegetable beverages as consumers look for vegan options and cleaner ingredient lists.

Consumers are seeking bold new flavors and colors, looking for products that are both visually appealing and packed with flavor. This trend is driven by a desire for indulgence and self-expression, and vegetable beverages could be seen as more whimsical and exotic.
